++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Damp start on Wednesday, then dry and bright.

Today:

A cloudy start for most with some light rain, but clearer weather over the Hebrides and Northwest coast soon spreading to all areas bringing some sunny spells, these reaching Fort William by late morning. Winds easing. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Tonight:

A mainly dry evening, with some clear spells for a time. Clouding over from the south with patchy rain reaching Lochaber around midnight and extending northeast overnight. Minimum temperature 3 deg C (37 deg F).

Thursday:

Mainly cloudy, some patchy rain, with a few heavier bursts across Skye and Wester Ross, though becoming mainly dry. Some sunshine breaking through in the east. Breezy in northwest. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

A generally dry and settled spell with some long clear or sunny spells for many, but more cloud for the Western Isles, perhaps the northeast on Sunday. Increasing frost risk.
